Californian Is
Keynote Speaker

Mayor Anton Anderson of Anchorage, president of the League of Alaskan Cities, announced this week the keynote speaker for the League's Eighth Annual Convention in Juneau, November 5 - 6, will be Richard Carpenter, Executive Director and General Counsel of the League of California Cities.

Considered the outstanding man in his field, Carpenter comes to the Alaska cities convention on the eve of Statehood as special representative of the American Municipal Association. He will speak at the convention's opening session dinner at the Baranof Hotel Wednesday evening, November 5. His address "Municipal Home Rule - Opportunities Unlimited" will follow the welcome of the host city mayor, M. L. MacSpadden of Juneau, and the response by League President Anderson.

The California League director will participate also in the convention's first Legislative Workshop session on Thursday, November 6. This session, with Anchorage City Attorney James Fitzgerald presiding, will be concerned with needed legislation to implement the Local Government Article of the Alaska State Constitution. Also participating will be Robert M. Stover, chief, and other members of the Public Administration Service team now preparing detailed studies to guide new state legislators in the drafting of new laws, including those for political subdivisions.

Three qualified experts in the field of municipal finance will speak to city officials attending during a Finance Workshop session scheduled for November 6.

STOP STALLS
due to carburetor icing

Only Chevron gasolines bring you a new anti-icing discovery that's guaranteed to stop stalls. Here's how:

During cold weather, moist air freezes, forming tiny ice crystals inside your carburetor. These tiny crystals build up around your throttle valve, choke off your fuel mixture. When this happens, your engine stalls!

Chevron gasolines stop these stalls, by stopping the moist air from freezing inside your carburetor. It's tested, proved and guaranteed!

Standard brings you this winter protection in both Chevron Supreme and Chevron Gasoline.
